Volunteering

South Africa, Namibia, Botswana

sikhula sonke
growing together

In 1995, we founded Good Hope Studies as an international language school in Cape Town. The idea was to bring young adults to this exciting and beautiful city and for them to learn about the language and the culture.

In 2009 we started with volunteer projects. As beautiful as Cape Town and the whole of South Africa are, there are nevertheless some communities in need. Even such a long time after the end of apartheid, there is still a great amount of poverty in former disadvantaged areas and communities.

A huge number of NGOs are doing their best to help, but with low budgets, their impact is limited. Local and international volunteers are donating their time and know-how to assist these NGOs.

At Good Hope Volunteers we are looking for projects which provide a safe and organized environment for international volunteers to contribute in a meaningful and positive way to local communities and conservation projects.

It is very important to us that both sides benefit equally. Volunteering is about giving and taking. While you give your time and efforts to a project, you also greatly benefit from learning about different cultures and interesting people. Volunteering can only work if people meet on an equal footing.

When booking a volunteer project from Good Hope Volunteers, you can expect to be well informed about the experience upfront, to work at a project that is safe and organized and allows you to make a meaningful contribution.

Allow us to help you find your favourite project and start an experience that can change your life.

Yours sincerely,

Wolfgang Graser

Alexander Kratochwil

GHV Volunteer House

Volunteers of all projects in Cape Town stay in the GHV Volunteer House. There are single and twin rooms with shared bathrooms, a communal kitchen for self-catering, a lounge area and a garden with a pool.

The GHV Volunteer House is located in a popular student area close to the University of Cape Town. It is close to a large shopping mall, restaurants, pubs, a gym, cinema, banks etc.

Volunteers stay here together and share their experience. The daily transfer to the projects also starts from here.

Once a month, Good Hope Volunteers organises a group activity and volunteers can participate in the activity programme of the language school nearby.

Ms Megan Burger, Volunteer Manager:

"I believe volunteering embodies the South African philosophy of 'Ubuntu', which translates to 'I am because we are.', with the emphasis on compassion and community.

Volunteering represents the opportunity to contribute positively to society, offering one's time, energy and knowledge to uplift communities in need. Volunteering plays a pivotal role in initiatives addressing challenges like poverty, inequality, as well as animal and environmental conservation.

There is immense potential for Good Hope Volunteers in the coming years. I hope to see an expansion of projects and becoming a leader in sustainable and long-term improvements in the lives of those we commit to, assisting in creating a more empowered and resilient society."

Our story

In 1994, Wolfgang Graser and Alexander Kratochwil moved from their home in Vienna to the beautiful city of Cape Town. They quickly fell in love with this vibrant city and its friendly, smiling people. They first opened an English language school for foreign tourists to learn English, but soon they discovered that behind the shiny places there are enormous problems and challenges that this country faces for historic reasons. They met with organisations that assist government in the struggle for a better life and a better environment.

When you see what these organisations do, it's not difficult to feel moved and share in their desire to help. They can't solve all problems overnight, but they do make an impact and do change people's lives on a daily basis. What they need, though, are volunteers who share their passion to help and who want to make a difference.

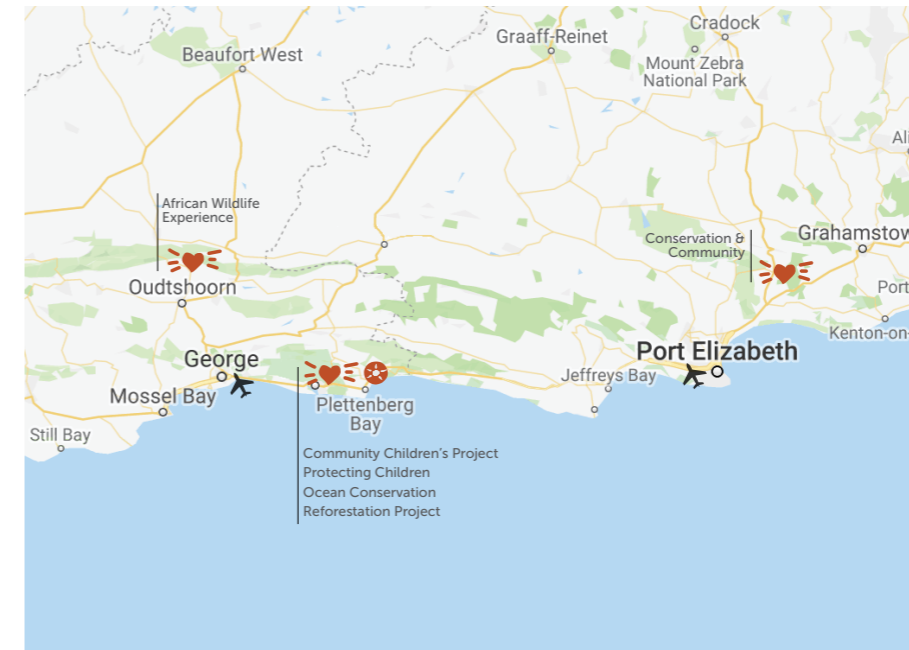

In 2009, we started to supply some of these organisations with international volunteers. What we specifically loved was not only seeing these organisations thrive with the volunteers but also noticing how the volunteers themselves benefit hugely from the experience.

Over the years, we developed Good Hope Volunteers into a larger and more professional organisation. With our passion for communities, animals, and the environment, we have developed Good Hope Volunteers into a top service provider in this field.

If you are looking for a life-changing experience, then allow us to assist you in finding the most suitable project on our website and beyond.

Combine volunteering with a language course

When you volunteer, it is essential that you are able to communicate clearly with your supervisor, colleagues and the people you are helping. A good command of English is therefore required for all projects.

If you need to brush up on your English skills, add a language course before you start volunteering. Doing this will also give you a chance to get accustomed to the country before you start at your project.

If your level of English already meets the minimum criteria, you may want to combine an English language course in the morning with volunteering in the afternoon.

Our sister company, Good Hope Studies, operates an English language school from two campuses in Cape Town: one campus is situated in the leafy residential area of Newlands and the other is in the vibrant city centre, close to popular tourist attractions like the V&A Waterfront with spectacular views of Cape Town.

Our school is well-known for the professional yet relaxed environment in which learning is both challenging and fun. Students from up to 50 different countries benefit from our courses each year.
